Description

The IC2IS Division, operating under the oLSI model, has requirements for integrated product development support, technical project management support, and operational support to successfully fulfill the IC2IS Division's mission of providing support services at both the diverse project levels and the overall Division organization level. This scope includes providing tactical support services throughout the initiating, planning, executing, monitoring, and closing phases of projects in addition to providing support for the overall organizational planning, performance, reporting, data analytics, tools, metrics, and best practices that can be repeatedly executed with high levels of success. This requirement directly supports multiple major defense acquisition programs, other acquisition category designations, and other defense weapons systems. NOTE 1: This solicitation package was generated in ePS which requires us to include the SOW as an attachment in Section J. NOTE 2: This solicitation is utilizing a phased HTRO approach, please read Sections L and M carefully.
